CIVIL SERVICE STAFF CUTS CIRCULAR.

PREPARATION FOR THE WORST.

LIST OF MEN WILLING FOR TRANSFER.

NOTHING SETTLED.

While there is at present no suggestion that staff reductions in the Civil Service are imminent, or even decided upon, the Telegraph learns to-day that every avenue is being explored by the Government with a view to facilitating the process in a way occasioning the least hardship should circumstances compel the Colony to retrench in this direction.

The financial position is more serious to-day than ever before. The deficit on the basis of to-day's dollar value is certain to exceed the estimate of $5,000,000 by at least a million dollars, and staff cuts, though regrettable, may be necessary if an improvement does not soon take place.

Transfer Circular.

In the past week, we understand, an enquiry has been circulated through all Government departments, with a view to ascertaining how many Civil Servants—who were asked to give their names—would be willing to be transferred to other Colonies if staff reductions in Hongkong became necessary.

We were informed, on making enquiries to-day, that the purpose of the Government in issuing the circular was to discover those officers willing to go. The Government has no desire to dismiss anyone without endeavouring to find them employment elsewhere, and where such employment can be found, it is obviously better to place those men who are willing to leave the Hongkong service.

Surprising Response?

It is reported that the response to the circular has been surprising, a very large number of applications having been received, but we were officially informed to-day that the Government does not see its way clear to indicate how many Government servants have indicated willingness to be transferred.

The Government considers that it is a private matter between the individuals concerned and the Executive, and is not prepared to make any disclosure.

Anxiety in Service.

Naturally in the circumstances prevailing some anxiety is, or has been, felt among Civil Servants regarding their future, especially among those in their first term of service, but it has been generally believed that the Government would be most disinclined to embark on dismissals without endeavouring to place its officers elsewhere.

This is borne out by the latest circular.

In this connexion it must be remembered that many of the young men who recently came out from Home for the Government, only did so after mature consideration and possibly after giving up good prospects in England.

It would certainly be most regrettable if they were thrown out of their positions because of a financial crisis the seriousness of which no one could foresee.

Retrenchment Efforts.

The Report of the Retrenchment Committee is expected to be ready shortly, while H. E. The Governor has been conducting special inquiries through the heads of Departments regarding means of curtailing expenditure, by means of staff reductions and otherwise.

It is notified that no examinations for Certificates of Competency for Masters, Mates, or Engineers will be held during the week ending February 21, 1931.

QUAKE RUIN INCREDIBLE.

LORD BLEDISLOE'S COMMENT.

WEEK-END TOUR.

London, Feb. 9. The Governor-General of New Zealand, Lord Bledisloe, who, with his wife, spent the week-end in the earthquake devastated Hawkes area, in a telegram to the Dominion Secretary, refers to the "quiet courage, mutual helpfulness, resourcefulness and discipline of the whole population, including the Maori race, amid a scene of wholesale destruction and bereavement."

"The medical and relief services," he adds, "have been organised admirably and are working smoothly. With improved transport, the majority of the population have left Napier and its well-equipped Field Hospital has evacuated the most serious casualties to other hospitals in North Island."

"The unevacuated homeless people are accommodated comfortably under canvas in the Public Park and elsewhere. Essential supplies are fairly adequate and the deficiencies, chiefly of clothing, are being rapidly made good."

"The prompt, efficient and indefatigable services of the Naval officers and men continuously from the time of the initial disaster are beyond all praise."

"Sailors are engaged on the demolition of precarious buildings and the recovery of bodies from beneath great piles of debris. The scene of ruin is difficult to exaggerate. The tremors continue but they are not serious."

In a telegram to the King, President Hindenburg has expressed sincere condolences on the New Zealand earthquake disaster and has assured His Majesty that the whole of Germany feels the deepest sympathy. The King, in reply, expressed profound gratitude for the kind message which, he is confident, will be deeply appreciated throughout the Dominion.—British Wireless.

The strike appears to be collapsing.

Four persons were killed in riots following the prohibition of the import of foreign flour. Calm has been restored, but striking mill workers declare they will not resume work until the flour decree has been annulled.—Reuter.

GLOUCESTER BLDG PROGRESS.

TO BE READY BEFORE CONTRACT DATE.

LAND INVESTMENT COMPANY PROSPERITY.

FREE OF MORTGAGE.

Presiding at the annual general meeting of the Hongkong Land Investment and Agency Co., Ltd., this morning, the Hon. Mr. J. J. Paterson said it was anticipated that the greater part of the ground and mezzanine floors of Gloucester Building would be ready for occupation by May and that the whole building would be completed before the end of the year. It was also disclosed at the meeting that the Company's properties were now entirely free of mortgage, and that a sum of $400,000 had been set aside to initiate a fund for rebuilding.

Higher Directors' Fees.

As a mark of appreciation of the success of the company, it was proposed on behalf of the shareholders that the Directors' fees should be increased to $15,000 per annum.

In acknowledging the gesture, which emanated from Mr. E. M. Raymond, supported by Mr. Ho Kwong, the Chairman pointed out that it could not be passed at that meeting, but that as it was a matter which came under the Articles of Association, an extraordinary general meeting, together with a confirmatory meeting, would have to be called and the proposition laid before them.

Chairman's Speech.

Addressing the shareholders, the Chairman said:—Gentlemen, With your permission, I propose to follow the usual procedure and take the report and accounts as read. Profit and Loss Account.—There are few appreciable differences as compared with the previous year. Apart from sale of property the net result is some $16,000 better.

Turning to the balance sheet, you will notice that the amount advanced on mortgage has been reduced by slightly over twelve lakhs. This is largely due to mortgages on the Praya East Reclamation lots expiring and being paid off, mortgages having found a ready sale by splitting up their lots and selling free of encumbrance.

The amount invested in property has increased by about three and a quarter millions. This is partly accounted for by our having paid the final call on the areas we still own on the Praya East Reclamation. The remainder is chiefly due to the construction of Gloucester Building. You will, of course, understand that included in this figure are contracts to which we are already committed, but not necessarily completed.

All Property Free.

On the liabilities side, you will notice that the mortgage of $650,000 on Prince's Building has ceased to appear. This has been paid off and the whole of our property is now free. With regard to the appropriations proposed by your Directors Special Repairs & Renewals Account would be brought up to its original figure $25,000. Equalization of Dividend Account.—By appropriating $50,000, this account would be brought up to $300,000, which is the equivalent of $1 per share of issued shares. It is also proposed to put aside $400,000 to initiate a fund for rebuilding. As years go on, your properties tend to become obsolete and require more and more repairs, so that before long a scheme of rebuilding will have to be taken in hand. Your Directors therefore consider it wise to set aside some of our profits for this purpose.

As regards the property market during the past year, matters improved somewhat, but not to any great extent. Your Directors, however, took advantage of offers for two blocks of vacant land on the Praya East Reclamation and Inland Lot No. 45, which were sold at a good profit. We also disposed of some old property in Kowloon upon which we had had to re-enter owing to non-payment of interest. There was no immediate profit in this sale, but it secured the profit made on the original sale several years ago.

A VALUABLE RING STOLEN.

HOW LOCAL GOLDSMITH WAS TRICKED.

BRASS SUBSTITUTE.

A successful ruse by which he was able to relieve a local jeweller of a diamond ring valued at $1,380 was practised by a Chinese from Canton, the victim taking advantage of a short acquaintance with the unfortunate goldsmith.

The victim, Ho Tak-ho, of 18, Caine Street, informed the police that whilst in Canton some two weeks ago he was introduced to a man named Leung Sau-sham and on that occasion the man intimated that he would be in Hongkong shortly, when he would require a diamond ring. Leung arrived on Saturday and called on the jeweller, but, finding him out, left a message to say that he was staying in Room 91 at the Empress Hotel.

In compliance with a request, Ho took an 18 carat platinum ring set with 135 small diamonds, worth $1,380, to Leung at the Hotel. The ring was placed in a match box and whilst the transaction was being carried out, Ho had occasion to leave the room. On his return, Leung also excused himself and when left alone Ho opened the box to examine the ring but found that the genuine article had been substituted by a brass ring.

A search for Leung failed to reveal his presence on the premises and it was discovered that he had absconded, with the ring.

Tokyo, Feb. 9. The collision between the Messageries Maritimes liner Porthos and a ferry-boat outside Kobe Harbour this evening occurred during a blinding snowstorm.

Sixty-nine persons who were aboard the ferryboat are missing and must have lost their lives. Twenty-five were rescued.

It was the Porthos, it will be recalled, which was responsible for the rescue of the survivors of the Tricolor disaster Colombo recently.—Reuter.

DIRECTORS READY FOR SQUALLS.

SIZE YAP STEAMSHIP CO. ACTION.

PREPARED TO EXPLAIN CONDUCT.

NEWSPAPER NOTICE.

If the conduct of the directors had been involved they would have been ready to face it, declared Mr. Chiu Yu-chi, formerly chairman of the Sze Yap Steamship Company, when cross-examined in the case concerning the company's affairs which was resumed before the Acting Chief Justice this morning, the sixth day of the hearing.

Mr. Potter referred to the notice of the directors published on July 21 or 22 in which they said that the eight resolutions brought up at the special meeting of shareholders, had previously been declared by the Board to be illegal.

Chiu Yu-chi said that it referred to the subsequent meeting and it was obvious that that meeting was quite illegal.

What Notice Meant.

I put it to you that is not what the notice meant. Your contention there is, that the meeting of July 8, convened by the requisitionists, was, for certain reasons in the directors' opinion, illegal? It does not say in the newspaper that the meeting convened by the body of shareholders for discussion of the eight resolutions was illegal. I do not think it means that at all. It clearly refers to the second meeting.

Will you point out to me any reference in that notice to the second meeting? It clearly refers to the second meeting because the eight resolutions were not passed at the first meeting and the notice talks about the adoption of the eight resolutions. His Lordship thought the way witness read the notice was that the bringing up of the matters at the subsequent meeting had been declared illegal.

Judge's View Accepted.

Mr. Potter said he would be quite prepared to share his Lordship's view on the matter.

Mr. Potter:—In this notice you published, I put it to you that you do not find it stated, as one might expect if your case is correct, that it was put to this meeting that the eight resolutions should not be dealt with at all, but, in their place, there should be merely a resolution for chartering and dividend?—At the end of the notice it says that the object of the shareholders was for the discussion of chartering and dividend and nothing else should be dealt with.

Are you referring to the minutes which are also published?—Yes.

Not Necessary.

Let us confine ourselves to the directors' notice. Your case is that only two resolutions were put to that meeting. As none of the other resolutions were put, on your case, you could not have a confirmatory meeting regarding them?—Really, there was nothing decided about the eight resolutions. It was not necessary to put in this notice that the eight resolutions were not discussed.

Witness said if he had anticipated all this trouble he would have set matters down much more clearly. Also, if the directors had known that some shareholders were going to start another meeting after he had left, he would have paid a solicitor to remain on the premises all night, until daybreak if necessary.

Mr. Potter said that according to the minutes the chairman said that shareholders had been arguing for over two hours without result. Mr. Wong had proposed that the ships be chartered and profits divided and he asked for the opinion of shareholders.

Resolution Questions.

Witness said that the minutes could not contain all the words spoken at the meeting.

Will you agree with me that, in effect, the eight resolutions were (Continued on Page 12.)

A GOLD MINE PURCHASE.

MR. THEODORE IN CROWN ACTION.

$30,000 CLAIM.

Brisbane, Feb. 9. Based upon the findings of the Queensland Royal Commission of Enquiry into the circumstances attending the purchase of the Mungana (Chillagoe) Mines by the Queensland Labour Government when Mr. Edward G. Theodore, the present Federal Treasurer, was Prime Minister, the Crown's statement of claims in the case have been delivered to the defendants' solicitors.

The Commission, which submitted its Report in July last, found that Mr. Theodore, another ex-Premier of Queensland, Mr. W. McCormack, and the Mines Manager, Mr. Goddard, were guilty of fraud and dishonesty in procuring the State purchase of the mines for £40,000.

Mr. Theodore immediately resigned his position in the Federal Cabinet, though he declared that the charges were the result of the work of political enemies. It is less than a month since he resumed his position as Mr. Scullin's second-in-command.

It is understood that the Crown's claims total $30,000, four defendants including Mr. Theodore, being jointly sued.—Reuter.

AMERICAN NAVAL DECREASES.

BIG REDUCTION IN THE ANNUAL BILL.

Washington, Feb. 9. The Appropriations Committee has sent to the House of Representatives the annual Naval Supply Bill, providing for credit of $334,000,000, which represents a decrease of $336,000,000 as compared with the current year. The Committee recommends a sharp decrease in the officers attending the Naval Academy and in enlisted personnel, a reduction of the ships of the line and of their crews.

A sum of $331,000,000 is allowed for naval aviation, which is a reduction of over $31,000,000, but the report adds that an expansion programme to be spread over a period of five years, and providing a thousand aeroplanes, will be completed early in the next fiscal year.—Reuter's American Service.

THREE YEARS' PEACE IN COALFIELDS.

MINERS AND OWNERS SIGN AGREEMENT.

London, Feb. 9. The South Wales coal-owners and miners' leaders have signed the new agreement which provides for three years' peace in the coalfields, the agreement running until January, 1934.

The settlement represents concessions by both sides. Wage disputes will be submitted, if necessary, to an independent chairman of the Joint Conciliation Board, the miners having given way on this point, while the owners agreed to the demand for an extension of the period during which the 7½-hour day would be paid at the same rate as for an 8-hour day.

The ruling rate is that in force in November last, and the men will work 7½-hours every week-day.—Reuter.

CANTON FERRYBOAT MISHAP.

PASSENGERS RESCUED BY SAMPAHS.

Canton Feb. 9. A small motor ferry boat plying between Canton and Honan turned turtle yesterday afternoon.

Fortunately, there were only seven passengers on board at the time of the accident, all of whom were rescued by sampans in the vicinity.

A sudden helm manoeuvre in avoiding a junk in the strong tidalway is said to have been the cause of the mishap.—Our Own Correspondent.

FIGHTING SPEECH ON PEACE.

BRITAIN DEMANDS DISARMAMENT.

MR. HENDERSON ON A NEXT WAR.

YEAR OF PROMISE.

London, Feb. 9. A forceful and eloquent appeal for the banishment of war from the world was made by Mr. Arthur Henderson, the Foreign Secretary, to-night, speaking at a great disarmament demonstration in London.

The destruction of life and property in the next war, should there be another war, would be on a scale exceeding all powers of imagination, he declared.

Disarmament, he said, must be by international agreement. It would represent a definite recognition by all nations that their armies, their navies, and their air forces, were matters which concerned not themselves alone, but other peoples of the world also.

Imperative Obligation.

A disarmament agreement would represent acceptance of the imperative obligation that military preparations should no longer be determined by nations unrestricted, that military preparations will only be part of the general concern of the international community.

Everything, he emphasised, depended upon the manner in which the governments of the world completed the framework which the Preparatory Commission had drawn up at Geneva after long years of work.

Public Opinion.

The figures which the Governments inserted in that framework depended upon public opinion. If the people wanted disarmament they could have it, and the friends of peace had twelve months before them in which to mobilise public opinion in favour of a great opportunity which might not recur.

If they really drifted, the next war would be incomparably worse than the last.

A military expert had said that in the last war we were killing by retail, but next time it would be done wholesale.

"We have surely learned," said Mr. Henderson, "that it is beyond our power to humanise the conduct of modern war. Once war begins, no man and no Government can control it. The only way to stop such barbarities is to stop war itself."

Civilisation Threatened.

"We may be very certain that if war occurs it will bring with it a destruction of life on a scale such as we have never imagined nor can imagine, a destruction that will probably engulf in all human probability the very civilisation in which we live."

Turning to the strictly economic reasons for the policy for which the Government stood, Mr. Henderson pointed out that the economic crisis in Germany, the spectre of unemployment, and the world crisis generally, was all part of the aftermath of the last war.

The problems of thousands of men idle, of the depressed state of industry, all represented victims of war.

The world economic crisis, he declared, could only be coped with by world action, but world action meant international cooperation on economic questions of every kind, and this would never be obtained while policies were founded upon a constant fear of war.

Tariff barriers, self-sufficiency, trade prohibitions, economic nationalism in all its aspects, were all the consequences of conceptions of national interests which have been created by the fear of war.

Europe to-day was as full of difficult political problems as it was five years ago. As the Foreign Minister of a great Power he declared that disarmament was the key to their peaceful solution.—British Wireless.

WEDDING AT THE CATHEDRAL.

DR. J. W. ANDERSON WEDS MISS S. GILLESPIE.

A great deal of public interest was manifested in the wedding of Dr. J. W. Anderson to Miss Sheila Gillespie, which was solemnized at St. John's Cathedral yesterday afternoon, being followed by a largely attended reception on the Roof Garden of the Hongkong Hotel.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Gillespie, The Leasowes, Victoria, B.C., and the bridegroom, Dr. James William Anderson, M.B., Ch.B., F.R.C.S. (Edinburgh) is the only son of the late Mr. H. B. Anderson, of Edinburgh, and Mrs. Anderson, Morrah, Landin Links, Fife, Scotland.

The ceremony, which was conducted by the Very Rev. Dean Swann, and which was choral, was timed to commence at half past three, but the Cathedral was filled before that hour arrived.

Family Laces.

The bride, who was given away by Mr. T. E. Pearce, was attired in a dress of deep satin, adorned with family laces. She wore a veil which was also part of the family lace, and carried a bouquet of Arum lilies. She was attended by two bridesmaids, Miss Jean Mackie and Miss Joan Beavis, both of whom were attractively attired in dresses of deep blue georgette with small crests. Coronets of silver leaves and silver shoes completed their costumes.

The Matron of Honour, Mrs. Pearce, wore a beautiful mantle crepe roumain gown, raised with flowered liberty velvet.

Mr. M. M. Watson was "best man."

The honeymoon is being spent at Fanning, the bride's going-away costume being of brown crepe morocain.

The Attendance.

The following were among those who were present at the reception. The Hon. Mr. J. Owen Hughes, Mr. H. B. L. Dowbiggin, Mr. W. D. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lindell, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. F. Bellamy, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Humphreys, Mr. W. A. Dowley, Dean Swann, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. King, Miss Johnson, Mr. L. S. Greenhill, Dr. and Mrs. Macgown, Dr. Cogun and Mrs. Cogun, Dr. and Mrs. Black, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Shields, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hazelland, Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Cassidy, Mr. and Mrs. Bousfield, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Franks, Mr. and Mrs. R. Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Walsh, Capt. and Mrs. Oliver, Mrs. R. E. H. Oliver, Mrs. and Miss Hoyt, Mrs. Schuyler, Mrs. Grayburn, Mrs. Hogarty, Mrs. M. H. Turner and Miss Fair, Mrs. Shenton, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Hugh Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, Dr. and Mrs. McElroy, Miss Winnifrid, Mr. J. D. Humphreys, Mr. and Mrs. H. Owen Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Newbiggin, Mrs. B. L. Lewis, Mrs. Tinson and Mr. Allan Cameron.

At the cathedral the duties of ushers were carried out by Mr. O. E. C. Marton and Mr. W. T. Stanton.

Mr. Pearce's Toast.

In proposing the health of a bride and bridegroom, Mr. Pearce said it was a disadvantage at such functions in a place like Hongkong that one did not usually have one's relations and intimate friends present, and the couple were very gratified and pleased at the way in which their friends had rallied round.

He had not had the privilege of meeting the bride's parents, but they had mutual friends in Victoria, B.C., where only the best and fairest were produced. He was sure that the people over there would be thinking of them in Hongkong that afternoon. His wife and himself had the privilege of knowing the charming lady who was the mother of the bridegroom, and it must be a very

CORRESPONDENCE.

Popsy Again.

(To The Editor of Hongkong Telegraph.)

Mr. dear—Tubby's simply furious with me, he says I'm always giving unkind versions of his ideas. But I'm not always wrong and I want about those currants for when I went to pay the Government our Water Bill the 1st wasn't working and the boy said "no currants no can do"—so you see they are having trouble about them.

Angus came in last night and says he's found the key to the Solution. He says he's done a lot of hard drinking during the week-end and that the way to solve the "clerk" problem is to pay them in Roubles and he's got a lot of old ones he'd let the Government have cheap. He says Zolavsky put that idea into his head.

Angus says that dog powder idea of mine is fine and why not try it all round and that it's a case of wisdom out of the mouths of baby ducklings and that's rather sweet of him isn't it, my dear. He says it's our duty to be suggestive because poor Sir William couldn't think of everything even if his subconscious self went on working when he's asleep.

Tubby says there's something radically wrong with the Government system. I do think they ought to have it cleaned out, especially with the hot weather coming on, so in-cunetic, my dear.

Yesterday I paid Amah and gave her eighty cents for each dollar and explained and said there needn't be any controversy. She seemed a bit sceptical and now she's come Canton more far and I must be because I've got to wash Tubby's shirts and things. Aren't these Amahs too lamentably benighted? Your over-worked, proud day in her life to know that her only son was being married to such a charming girl. (Applause).

As to "Andy," he was very well known to them, and was one of the coming men of Hongkong. Mr. Pearce said he was sure that the bridegroom would rise very high in his profession and they would all wish him every success in his future career.

Mr. Pearce asked those present to rise and drink to the health, prosperity, happiness, and long life, of Dr. and Mrs. Anderson.

The toast was drunk and was followed by three cheers.

Bridegroom's Reply.

In replying, Dr. Anderson said that his feelings were much too strong for expression. Mere words could not express what he felt as to the kindness which had been shown to his bride and himself. First of all, he said, he would thank Mr. and Mrs. Pearce. For over seven years he had had the very great privilege of Mr. and Mrs. Pearce's open door. He could not tell what that meant to him and what it meant to other young men in the Colony who had shared it.

It was his privilege to propose a toast to the bridesmaids. His wife had expressed to him how much she owed to the bridesmaids, coming as she did only 24 hours ago, to a strange place.

Replying on behalf of the bridesmaids, Mr. M. M. Watson thanked Mr. Anderson.

The bridegroom presented each of the bridesmaids with a beautiful platinum wrist watch.

TO AID EARTHQUAKE SUFFERERS.

THEIR MAJESTIES HEAD LIST IN ENGLAND.

London, Feb. 9.
Although the High Commissioner for New Zealand had decided to make no appeal to sym-pathisers in England on behalf of the sufferers in the New Zealand earthquake, he shares the view expressed in a cable from his Government that he would be un-gracious to refuse any voluntary offer of assistance.

Over £4,000 in this way has already been subscribed, the donations including £500 from
H. M. the King and £250 from
H. M. the Queen.

The New Zealand Government has established an organisation to administer relief funds generously subscribed locally, and a special session of the New Zealand Parliament has been convened for March 17 to deal in a larger way with the economic position and to pass any legislation rendered necessary.

Getting Back to Normal.
Meanwhile, the people in the stricken area are beginning to return to their homes, the shocks of the earthquake having now lessened in number and severity. Good progress is being made with the demolition of dangerous buildings in the business quarters of Napier, and with the restoration of the lighting, water and sanitation services.

The Governor General and Lady Bledisloe spent the week-end at Napier, and Lord Bledisloe, addressing a religious service yesterday, paid a tribute to the courage and calmness displayed by the inhabitants. The N. Z. Prime Minister is visiting the district to-day.—British Wireless.

PEACE IN SOUTH WEST CHINA.

SUCCESS OF KWANGSI DELEGATION.

Nanking, Feb. 9.
President Chiang Kai-shek continues to confer with Generals Chan Chai-tong and Wang Shaohung on matters pertaining to military rehabilitation in Southwestern China, and has decided to appoint General Wu Ting-yang, ex-Commissioner of Kwangsi, as Assistant Commissioner of Kwangsi, and Mr. Chan Shih as a member of the Kwangsi Provincial Council.

The Kwangsi peace delegates and General Chan Chai-tong will leave here in about a week's time.
The departure of the Kwangsi rebel commanders for places abroad will synchronise with the return to Kwangsi of General Wang Shao-hung and it is understood that each of the departing Kwangsi Generals will be given $30,000 to cover the expenses of their journey abroad.

BRITAIN'S FUTURE ON THE SEA.

NAVAL DISARMAMENT MAY BE OVERDONE.

London, Feb. 9.
The First Lord of the Admiralty,
Mr. Alexander, in a speech at Newcastle, discussed Britain's attitude to the naval work of the future.

"We pleaded for disarmament," he said. "I think you can go too quickly in this matter unless you can get other countries in Europe to go just as quickly. You find a steady decline in our naval expenditure and a steady rise in almost every other country, and you begin to ask whether it is a sane policy."
He did not want any peace-lover to think he did not favour further disarmament, but it was a mistake to go on with a policy which meant constant fluctuation. He advocated the stabilisation of naval relations between one country and another.—British Wireless.

WOMEN'S WORLD

FOR OUR LADY READERS.

OUR DRESSES.

The Colour Card for the Season.

Striking colour-harmonies are presented in the mode. The idea of combining three colours in a single costume is growing. The tri-color combination of red, blue, and white is still pleasing. Other three-colour combinations, such as red, yellow, and black, or grey, pink, and light blue, or brown, orange, and beige, have been noted already.

The number of colours is less numerous and more vivid than in other seasons. One of the great creators names red-brown, Mediterranean blue (which is warm and slightly violet in tone), a blue, which is definitely greenish in tone, and scarlet, as the key-colours of the year.

Each of these colours shades down to light tones, the brown to pale apricot, the warm blue to pale periwinkle, the green-blue to turquoise, and the scarlet to a delicate pink.

There are also a new shade of crimson-red, some yellowish-brown, some bluish-green, and a dark slaty-grey.

All these colours have the virtue of combining well with each other, so that any group of women dressed in the colours of the new season will present a beautiful colour-harmony, and no woman's dress will "kill" the next woman's dress.

A Useful Frock.

Stone-grey silk marocain is the fabric suggested for this useful dress, which illustrates the new horizontal tucked line from shoulders to hip with a belt at the natural waist. The single sash on the skirt, falling in a cascade down one side, is another interesting feature.

Dainty Cape Ensemble in Moire.

A cape ensemble in soft green moire silk, the frock having three rather wide flounces on the skirt, and the shapely cape being similarly adorned with narrower flounces. Note the posy fastening the cape.

YOUR CHILDREN.

(By Olive Roberts Barton.)

Do you have a child between 3 and 6 years old who is contrary?

If he is, lay it largely to the door of natural development. For when his mental impulses begin to work as they now do—by the hundred—his brain sends out all sorts of experimental tentacles.

One of these is a feeder to test its own strength, or I shall make it plural. It sends out unexpected arms in all directions to suit its own purposes—but chiefly for exercise.

A child at this age is like an aquarium fish suddenly released into large waters. He tries almost everything and goes everywhere. He even defies the current to see if he cannot stop it.
Thus we have the natural but not always pleasing manifestations of contrariness and obstinacy.

Should Check Influences.

Sometimes a child goes so far as to right about face if he gets his own way, and deliberately refuses the point he has gained, taking the opposite stand for no apparent reason.

The mother of such a child may take this explanation in good faith, but she also should go into conference and ask herself if all other influences in the child's life are right.

For although contrariness is a natural state of evolution, and few escape sporadic outbursts, there are other things, less fortunate, that may sour his disposition and lead to permanent obstinacy.

Is he happy? Are people about him cheerful, kind and encouraging? Does he ever hear praise or nice things said of himself?

If the reverse is the case, it is small wonder that his worst traits show their teeth. Because an unhappy, much-scolded little child never develops as normally as he should in any direction. For some reason the child reared in an atmosphere of love and kindness—not overindulging or spoiling, of course—usually returns the sweetness of his treatment in his own behaviour.

Must Be Physically Fit.

Nothing sours or warps the complex emotional growth as much as harsh or unsavoury surroundings, both mental and physical.

This brings us to environment.
This mother might think over several other things, too, if she is distressed about her unmanageable child.

Does the child like his home?
He does not need Persian rugs nor silken cushions, but he does need cheer, peace, cleanliness, supporting food, and above all real love.

Is he getting fresh air and healthy exercise enough to keep him well and vigorous? Physical well-being controls all mental well-being. An undernourished, sick body leads often to mental handicaps.

Yesterday's "Stickler" Solution.

This illustration shows how seven squares were changed to five squares, by moving three matches to other positions. The dotted lines indicate where the matches were taken from and the black matches indicate where they were put.

STICKLERS

THE illustration represents a simplified map, on which the numbered circles are Indian camps and the lines are paths.
The five Indians are hostile toward each other and are all going to their camps at the same time. The problem is to get each Indian to his respective camp by a route that does not

LEAGUE'S ELEVENTH
YEAR.

The League of Nations, established under the Peace Treaties, has just completed eleven years of its work. On the whole, its eleventh year, 1930-31, was a quiet period; that is to say, no dramatic threats to the peace of the world demanded the League's intervention. In spite of considerable political unrest not unconnected with the general economic depression, the world as a whole is more stable than immediately after the Great War. In Europe the Balkans, in particular, have belied their reputation of being the powder magazine by setting a good example to the rest of the world. In addition to the treaty of friendship between Greece and Turkey, the first pan-Balkan conference at Athens made a serious attempt to promote goodwill.

With an unusually small amount of emergency work to perform, the League of Nations was able to settle down to the more humdrum but vastly important job of building for the future. The Prince of Wales pointed out, last autumn, that "the way to prevent war is not by some sudden and violent action at the eleventh hour, but by the gradual, and steady formation of habits of international co-operation and mutual trust". Nobody can estimate in concrete terms the value of the regular meetings between the world's leading statesmen which, as a consequence of the existence of the League, have become a normal feature of modern diplomacy. Apart from the Council meetings and special League conferences, no fewer than fourteen Prime Ministers and twenty-two Foreign Ministers were among the delegates from fifty-two countries who attended the annual League Assembly at Geneva in September. This Assembly proved notable because of the contacts established between the British Empire and the League. General Hertzog, the South African Premier, and Mr. Scullin, the Commonwealth Prime Minister of Australia, were among the distinguished Dominion delegates who took part in the Assembly before going on to the Imperial Conference. At the latter gathering in London, it was significant that complete agreement was speedily reached on the question of the Empire's policy at Geneva. One of the principal questions was, of course, that of disarmament. The agreement reached at the London Naval Conference earlier in the year paved the way to the speeding up of the League's work. A skeleton disarmament treaty materials ed during December, and provides definite standards for comparing the fighting forces of various nations as well as principles for limitation and reduction. So complex has the disarmament problem proved to be, that a real step forward will be taken if the coming disarmament conference is able to do little more than stop the serious danger of competition.

During the year the two "wings" of the League—the International Labour Organisation and the Permanent Court of International Justice—had an extremely busy time. At the International Labour Conference in May, two new conventions were adopted, one restricting the evil of forced labour in Africa and other parts of the world, and the second dealing with hours of work of salaried employees. It was not found possible to secure agreement on hours of work in coal mines but, after further preparatory work, the question is to be raised again at this year's Conference. Up to the present, close upon 420 ratifications of International Labour Conventions have been registered at Geneva by various Governments. The judges sitting on the bench of the World Court in the Peace Palace at The Hague dealt with three international disputes, the most important being the "free zones" dispute between France and Switzerland. Since it began work in 1922, more than thirty cases have been handled by the Court.

Encouraging progress can be reported in connexion with most of the "side-shows" of the League of Nations. Volumes could be written about the activities of the Health Organisation alone. Valuable results have attended the League's enquiry into the best methods of the use of radium, and at the September Assembly the Australian delegate also paid tribute to its enquiry into health conditions in certain Pacific islands. Good work has also been done in connexion with malaria and sleeping sickness, and leprosy is now receiving expert study. China and Bolivia are the latest countries whose appeals for the re-organisation of their public health services are being answered by the League.

The League's fight against the opium traffic received considerable publicity owing to the many huge seizures of dangerous drugs which were made in different parts of the world during the latter half of the year. One blow at the white slave traffic, reported from the Argentine, was the discovery of an organisation of 700 persons trading in women and children. The League also agreed to take up the question of penal reform. Its huge scheme for the settlement of more than a million destitute refugees in Greece came to a successful conclusion with the close of 1930. Some of the more difficult of the League's tasks, such as the protection of Europe's minorities, may appear to be moving slowly, but the League certainly cannot be accused of idleness.

Australia's Finances.

The sole excuse for extending congratulations to the Australian politicians engaged in working out a plan for restoring the country's financial stability arises from the speedy condemnation of Mr. Lang's scheme for the repudiation of overseas debts. Mr. Lang has a mind in an extraordinary state of confusion if he seriously believes that the effect of such action would be otherwise than disastrous. Australia's difficulties, and it is a very grave problem that Mr. Scullin and his colleagues are facing, have developed naturally from unsound economic policies in the past three years. First, there has been undue dependence upon external loans—the interest upon which so displeases Mr. Lang—the latest estimates showing that Australia has borrowed, on an average, £30,000,000 annually since 1923. Then wage rates, which the Labour leaders are averse to touching, have risen till the average of real wages is ten per cent. higher to-day than in 1911, without a corresponding increase in the productivity of industry. The tariff wall has been built higher and higher, increasing the amount of protected production and throwing a heavy burden of tariff costs upon exporting industries. The fact of the matter is that Australia has been attempting to develop her resources too rapidly at a high and rising standard of living; public works have been carried out in advance of economic requirements; the tariff has heavily subsidized uneconomic industries. Add to this the crash in commodity prices, and the consequent loss of income, and it will be seen how the whole economic machine has been thrown out of gear. It is evident that readjustment—on a scale of great magnitude—is required, and that all the proposals so far advanced, including those of Mr. Theodore, offer resistance to that demand. The report of the experts has been thrust aside. Mr. Theodore has no better scheme to advance than one which involves meddling with exchange rates. We are afraid that unless the problem is tackled at its roots, as suggested by the experts, Australia will be no nearer rehabilitation at the end of the "Three Years' Plan" than she is to-day.

PRATTLE: AN APPEAL TO JURYWOMEN.

By Sir Edward Parry.

A LADY attended at Bow-street Police Court the other day and made a vehement attack on the behaviour of the ladies serving on the Grand Jury of the Central Criminal Court. The complainant was prosecutrix in a case where a man was charged, on her accusation, with robbery and assault.

The Grand Jury ignored the Bill, and the accused was not tried, a procedure well within their rights. But it annoyed the prosecutrix and she brought her grievance to Bow-street. Her complaint was that her fellow-women on the Grand Jury did not know their business. "What do they know about the law?" she said to the Magistrate. "They asked me the most ridiculous questions which had nothing to do with the case."

Here, I think, the applicant was mistaken. The true grandeur of a Grand Jury is that it is an irresponsible tribunal with no procedure, no judge to direct its members, and the rules of evidence are not binding on them. It is the constitutional right of a Grand Jury to ask ridiculous or any other sort of questions, on any subject at any distance from that subject.

Grand Jurors are mere citizens who, standing between the accused and the Crown, can, if they think right, forbid the trial of their fellow-citizen without being called upon to justify their action.

The applicant's request to a Metropolitan magistrate to rebuke the Grand Jury was satisfactory as an example of that universal faith in the omniscience and omnipotence of the police magistracy which is shared by all metropolitan mankind, and would be shared by rural and suburban peoples if they were endowed with like institutions. The ruling of the Bow-street Beak was without flaw. "Nobody is always right," he said; and this, he explained, applied to all officials giving judicial or other decisions.

It is good to have this point authoritatively decided, but it is not pleasing to read of a woman complaining of the conduct of jurors of her own sex from whom she expected sympathy. As one who was always in favour of women having these rights of citizenship, I am sorry such an incident should arise.

It will rouse up the dichards who opposed the enfranchisement of women, to quote the Scripture according to John Knox, who said it was "more than a monster in nature" that a woman should rule. Knox would have chuckled to hear of a jurywoman asking ridiculous questions, for he diagnosed in woman a "natural shamefastness" which, he thought, she would lose whenever she took upon herself the office and estate of man.

It would be a terrible business if John Knox was right about this woman business, and I turned out to be wrong. We must not assume the applicant's story was correct, for it was made ex parte. But if the Grand Jurywomen really ly did ask ridiculous questions, then what John Knox prophesied has actually happened. And that something of the sort has occurred in the past seems clear from the behaviour of Calphurnia, "who, having license to speak before the Senate at length, became so impudent and importunate that by her babbling she troubled the whole assembly."

I am not converted to John Knox's views about jurywomen and have always suspected that they were spiteful, and arose either from the conduct of his mother-in-law, or the folly of Queen Elizabeth in refusing to make him a Bishop.

Still this incident at the Central Criminal Court is unfortunate. Jurywomen must remember that as a rule the juror's is not a speaking part. The juror of the past has always been a strong silent man, a character dear to dramatists. No playwright ever had the courage to offer a leading lady the part of a strong silent woman. Ben Jonson called his play "The Silent Woman," but that was spoof and when in Act V, Epicoene turned out to be a youth the jury booed.

The art of listening to advocates and others asking ridiculous questions is a gift; asking them yourself is a bad habit. This gentle art of suffering irrelevance gladly is not easy to acquire. I worked at it for over thirty years and eager as I was to improve never became a scratch player.

I used to find it useful in moments of exasperating temptation to recite slowly to myself an ancient rhyme which I commend to jurywomen desiring to acquire the strong silent habit. It seems to contain in a few tactful lines the whole duty of Jurymen and Jurywomen.

A wise old Owl
Lived in an Oak,
The more he saw
The less he spoke,
The less he spoke
The more he heard.
Why can't we be
Like that old bird
I have always thought that the author of the verse had a jury in his mind when he wrote. How appropriate to typify the perfect juror as an owl. Minerva, one of the best and earliest of the New Women, always went about accompanied by this bird of wisdom; as a companion unlikely to interrupt her soliloquies by idle chatter. A parrot in a jury box would be unthinkable.

Note, too, that the poet seats his owl "in an oak." All the best jury boxes in the High Court are made of oak. After in County Courts where cheap painted woods of doubtful nationality too often insult the patriotism of the jurors. Fraser, in his "Golden Bough," points out that in early legends the owl is used as a symbol of feminine wisdom, whereas the bat is more typical of man.

When the Exchequer can spare some money from Grand Opera to subsidise painting, one of our symbolic artists might be given a commission to paint a picture of bats and owls on the walls of one of our law Courts as typifying the classical origin of the mixed jury.

Of recent years it has dawned on mankind that talking in Parliaments and Law Courts is largely a waste of time. Advocates certainly talk too much, but they like it, and some of them are worth listening to. Judges have been known to talk even in their sleep, witnesses are asked questions, and on occasion allowed to answer them negatively or affirmatively in monosyllables. I appeal to the jurywoman not to swell the volume of this idle prattle.

The fierce light of public opinion beats on the action of every woman citizen called upon to perform her public duties in Courts of Justice and elsewhere. Little incidents in which women play a part are often magnified by trumpeters of Evil who, like Knox, still fear in their hearts what they call the "unsexed and unjust empire of woman."

The evidence of judges of experience is unanimous that women make excellent jurors and exhibit all those attributes of patience, attention, and common sense which have made the British jury an institution which is the envy of less fortunate peoples.

There is not the least reason to suppose that the value of the jury system to the country has in any way been injured by opening the door of the jury box to women citizens.

THE CRIMINAL INSTINCT.

INFLUENCE IN CASE OF TWINS.

PROFESSOR HALDANE ON "DESTINY."

"Crime is destiny. At the most free-will very occasionally tips the balance over, and thus counts for something in the long run. A free-will of this kind is clearly of no practical importance."

Such is the opinion of man's limited responsibility for his actions expressed by Professor J. B. S. Haldane in a foreword to "Crime as Destiny—A Study of Criminal Twins," by Professor Dr. Johannes Lange, translated by Mrs. Haldane.

"When we compare two human beings," writes Professor Haldane, "we can put down all the differences between them to one of four sets of causes:

- "1. Differences of ancestry.
- "2. Segregation.
- "3. Differences of environment.
- "4. Uncaused events, if such occur.

"Two brothers, or two seedlings from the same plant, generally resemble each other more closely than two individuals taken at random from the population. This is because they have the same ancestry. But even two brothers may differ a great deal. This is due to a phenomenon called segregation.

Famous Fatalists.

"Ordinary twins are no more alike than brothers or sisters born separately. But monozygotic twins, as the products of fission of a single egg are called, are physically so alike that their own mother often cannot tell them apart. For example, the right hands of such a pair are more alike, as judged by finger-prints, than the right and left hands of the same person."

Professor Lange has collected the stories of thirteen pairs of such twins, in which at least one brother or sister was a criminal. The careers of nine out of these thirteen pairs are so closely identical as to justify, in the opinion of Professor Haldane, the belief that their criminal behaviour was not determined by their own "free-will."

"What would be the effect on human conduct," asks Professor Haldane, "if the view that crime is destiny were generally accepted? Supporters of indeterminism state that a belief in fatalism would logically yield to a blind acceptance of events and a refusal to struggle, either against external circumstances or defects in character. I cannot myself see the cogency of this view."

"Among the ranks of the fatalists must be reckoned Mohammed and his successors who conquered from the Atlantic to the Indus in a century, the leaders of the Reformation, the founders of the New England States, Napoleon, Lenin and Trotsky. Clearly a belief in destiny is rather a help than a hindrance to a strong character."

"Quite as often a man who recognises his weaknesses, arranges his life so as to avoid situations which he knows he cannot face. Mr. Smith does not frequent places where he is offered drink, because he knows he cannot resist it. For a similar reason Mr. Jones avoids ladies who say that their husbands do not understand them. The intelligent fatalist regards his lapses with a certain tolerance, but acts on the knowledge of his character which he gains through them."

Protestants and Catholics.

As concrete evidence of this view, Professor Haldane quotes statistics for England and Wales for the relative criminality of Roman Catholics, who believe in free-will and the duty of periodic repentance, and of the remainder of the population, who, "whether Protestants or Free-thinkers, mostly believe in other evils than sin," and are often determinists."

"The members of the Catholic organisation," writes Professor Haldane, "claim 8 per cent. of the population, but only 5½ per cent. of marriages are celebrated with Catholic rites, although Catholics who marry out of their religion are commanded to do so in a Catholic church, and generally comply. But 15 per cent. of our criminals are Catholics. So a Catholic is at least twice as likely to become a criminal as a member of any other religion or of none. This is not a very good advertisement of the value of the belief in free-will as a practical guide to conduct."

Further comments are called forth by some remarks made by Professor Lange on drink as a crime-producing influence.

RICE AND OIL GOT BY TRICK.

CHINESE YOUTH ORDERED A CANING.

After having ordered 60 cattles of rice and 20 cattles of oil from the Hip Tai Cheung rice shop, in Canton Road, to be delivered on a sampan lying off Soy Street, where payment would be made, a Chinese youth Kwok Shui, after having seen the sampan row away, bolted but was arrested by the two foks of the ship who had accompanied him. He was produced before Mr. Butters, at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, and charged with having obtained the rice and oil, valued at $10.40, by means of a trick.

The defendant asserted that it was another man who had bought the goods. He did not go to the shop at all.

Two foks of the shop said they accompanied the defendant to the sampan with the goods, for which they had been instructed by their master to claim payment after delivery. The goods were placed on the sampan which rowed away. The defendant did not go on board, but asked them to accompany him to a shop in Shanghai Street, where payment would be made. While they were proceeding along Shanghai Street, the defendant suddenly bolted. They gave chase and arrested him in Soy Street. Mr. Butters convicted the defendant and ordered him to receive twelve strokes of the cane.

TWO STOWAWAYS SENTENCED.

FOUND ON THE PRESIDENT JEFFERSON.

J. W. Henderson and Henry Lee were charged before Mr. Butters, at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, with having stowed away on the President Jefferson, which arrived here from Shanghai yesterday.

Both defendants pleaded guilty. The first defendant said he wanted to get to Australia and therefore stowed away. He could not pay his passage money, but he was quite willing to work his way.

The second defendant said he came from Vancouver to Shanghai to look for a job, but after a time he found himself broke. He had some money in Canada, but could not get it. As he could not get work, he grew desperate and stowed away. He, however, did as much work as possible on board the vessel.

Mr. A. Gould, ship's officer, said the defendants were discovered two days after the vessel left Shanghai. They were made to do some work, but before the vessel reached Hongkong they hid themselves again and it took five hours to discover them.

A fine of $50 or one month's imprisonment was imposed.

"Professor Lange's views on the importance of alcoholism as a factor in crime," states Professor Haldane, "are probably true for Bavaria, where beer is consumed in quantities, whose mere mention would ruin any reputation which I may have for accuracy. But it is equally clear that in England, which has dealt pretty successfully with the problem of alcohol, its consumption is not a major cause of criminal behaviour. In the United States the connexion may well be closer."

Commenting on Professor Haldane's views Sir Arthur Keith said: "Personally I believe that nature is stronger than nurture as a determinant of general policy, it is a matter of general policy, I consider that every man should be held responsible for his own actions."

"I think it well that every man should know that he will, if he offends against the community, be tried on the merits of his case. I would have no discrimination made in the case of any individual, unless it could be shown that he was mentally unfitted to be a member of the community."

"The safety of the Commonwealth is more important than the right of the individual, and to my way of thinking justice is not being wrongfully applied in our criminal courts. Mental deficiency is not so large an issue as is often supposed and I consider that the problems raised by a study of 'criminal twins' are primarily scientific."

"I am not a Roman Catholic, but with regard to Professor Haldane's suggestion that a member of that Church is at least twice as likely to become a criminal as a member of any other religion or of none, it is necessary to point out that a very large proportion of the Catholics in England and Wales are Irish. I have no wish to attack that nationality, but I would say this, that they are less trained for civilisation."

FORMER EMPLOYEES CHARGED.

EMBEZZLEMENT ALLEGED BY FIRM.

A series of alleged defalcations in the accounts of the Chan Wing On firm, of 312, Des Voeux Road Central, during the three years from October, 1929, to October, 1930, were brought against two former employees in the form of embezzlement charges before Mr. Williams at the Central Police Court this morning.

The two men, Leung Tsoi-nam, of Sharpe Street, and Leung Ping-sun, of Mathison Street, were accused of embezzlement of sums totalling $1,311.

Mr. M. K. Lo appeared for the prosecution and said that he understood the defendants had instructed Messrs. Russ and Company.

Mr. Lo asked for a remand, with the defendants in police custody for the first forty-eight hours to enable the defence to examine the account books. In meantime, the prosecution opposed bail.

The defendants were remanded in police custody for 48 hours and then until February 16.

RAILWAY SERVICE INTERRUPTED.

BANDITS APPEAR ALONG THE LINE.

Peking, Feb. 9.
Communications along the Peking-Suiyuan Railway were interrupted on Saturday and Sunday because of the sudden appearance of a large horde of bandits who threatened to attack the train.

Anticipating a revival of bandit activities with the approach of the Chinese New Year, the authorities have stationed a large contingent of troops along the line and the soldiers on Saturday encountered the bandits. It is understood that two days were spent by the soldiers in clearing the line of brigands.

DOCTOR SAYS "MARRY SECRETARY."

RULES FOR PICKING LIFE PARTNERS.

Lecturing to law students at the North-Western University, Dr. Edward Lyman gave this advice: "If you are a professional man, marry your secretary if she will have you."

A good telephone voice, he said, was an essential in the ideal wife, while beauty was the last quality to look for.

He advised the girl students to pick husbands according to the following rules:

He should allow you to audit his finances; should be healthy enough to swim 25 yards in 30 seconds; should be willing to rear children; should be ambitious and industrious.

He should be willing to make you an equal partner; should possess tact and a good disposition; should be mentally stable; and he should not be a braggart.

BRITISH MISSION IN CANTON.

VISITS PAID TO THE COTTON MILLS.

Canton, Feb. 9.
Arriving here this morning, members of the British Economic Mission to the Far East lost no time in beginning the extensive programme that has been mapped out for them for their three days' stay. Business men of the city have co-operated with the British Consulate-General in assisting the Mission in its task, and the members found a full day in front of them when they stepped off the boat this morning.

Every member of the Mission is at present in Canton, the bulk of them having come down on the Lanchow on Sunday night. Among those who met the boat were Mr. Herbert Phillips, the Consul-General, and Messrs. A. A. L. Tison, R. A. Hall, E. W. Jeffery and R. F. Daffern of the Consulate, and members of the British Chamber of Commerce including Messrs. G. M. D. Wolf (chairman), C. E. Watson (secretary), E. R. Hill, H. M. Webb, and H. S. Kavarana. Among the city's business men were Messrs. A. T. Lay (Manager of Reiss, Massey & Co.), R. K. Bachelor (Chairman of the Municipal Council and director of Deacons, Limited), and H. F. Campbell (Manager of Shewan, Tomes and Co.).

Also present were representatives of the Provincial and Military Governors, and Mr. Liang Chik-wai of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce and Mayor's Office.

Official Calls.

While leaders of the Mission paid calls on His Excellency Marshal Chan Ming-shu (Provincial Governor), members of the Cotton Mission were taken to the various cotton and wool mills in the city. Those paying the official visit were Sir Ernest Thompson, Sir Thomas Allen and Messrs. F. W. Birch, Joseph Wild and T. St. Quinton Hill, and they were accompanied by Mr. Herbert Phillips.

Observations made on their visits to mills in the North were confirmed by the members who toured the factories. They occupied the whole morning making extensive enquiries in the mills where yarn was being turned out into the finished article. From observations and questions it was obvious that the Mission members noted the large percentage of cheaper Shanghai yarn being used there in preference to the British product. They asked many questions concerning exchange, and while being careful enough not to commit themselves, their lengthy queries on this subject indicate that it will occupy some space in their report.

Informal Reception.

Members of the British Chamber of Commerce were afforded the opportunity of meeting the Mission at an informal reception arranged at the Canton Club before tiffin. The discussion there was mostly technical, and was continued in the afternoon at the office of Reiss, Massey & Co.

The British Consul-General entertained the Mission at tiffin, and the party split up in the afternoon, some keeping appointments with dealers and the remainder being taken in hand by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce.

To-night the Mission is due at an official dinner being given at Government House by Marshal Chan Ming-shu.

Chinese to Entertain.

Except for three official functions, the remainder of the Mission's stay in Canton will be devoted entirely to their investigations.

The Chinese Chamber of Commerce will entertain members at tiffin to-morrow, while the Consul-General and Mrs. Phillips have arranged a reception at the Consulate in the evening.

Luncheon on Wednesday will be taken as guests of the Mayor of Canton, Mr. Lin Wen-kai, at Toi Sze Yuan, Tungshan, and the party will leave for Hongkong by train in the afternoon.

Further investigations by the Mission will probably be into the manufacture of piece goods.—Our Special Correspondent.

WIRELESS EDUCATION.

SIR J. REITH JUSTIFIES AN "ARBITRARY DECISION."

Sir John Reith, Director-General of the B.B.C., addressing the first national conference of group leaders and student listeners in connexion with the Central Council for Broadcast Adult Education, at the London School of Economics, said that the decision to give education a place in broadcast programmes was arbitrary, and that broadcasting had been none the worse for some arbitrary decisions.

It would be agreed, he stated, that a state of democracy should presuppose and educated Demos. Had they got it?

"There are those of us," Sir John continued, "who believe that broad-

CINEMA NOTES.

"TEMPLE TOWER" FILLED WITH THRILLS.

Novelty, a factor often missing in screen-offering, is the keynote of "Temple Tower," the unique murder mystery comedy melodrama which thrilled and delighted the audience at the Queen's Theatre last night.

For Movietone, which produced this all talking picture, wisely advertised it as "melodrama as you like it," and thus achieved the double purpose they must have had in mind during the making of the film. For "Temple Tower" is at once a chilly melodrama or a subtle force, as you wish; those who like the good old appeal of suspense and danger and terror and ingenious, if dastardly, attempts to terminate the hero's existence will find "Temple Tower" ideal.

But the more sophisticated will see the picture as an infinitely clever "take off" on just this same sort of production and the film consequently is unique in its appeal to two widely separated classes of theatregoers.

And appeal it has, for either way you look at it, "Temple Tower" is a remarkably well handled piece of entertainment. The story, written by the creator of "Bulldog Drummond," H. C. McNeill, is as gripping a mystery tale as has ever been written; Llewellyn Hughes has done a masterly job of the screen version; the cast is superb and the direction excellent.

Kenneth MacKenna, who plays the role of "Bulldog Drummond" in the film, is the same gifted actor who scored so heavily in "Men Without Women" here recently and he gives an equally fine performance in this new thriller. The lovely Marceline Day makes an excellent and mysterious heroine and Henry B. Walthall is not-worthily as the half crazed master of Temple Tower. The rest of the cast, including Cyril Chadwick, Peter Gawthorne, Ivan Linow, Frank Lanning and Yorkes Sherwood, are all perfectly fitted to their roles and one of these whose identity shall be a secret here, plays a splendid dual part as the terrifying Masked Strangler. All in all, "Temple Tower" can be highly recommended to any type of screen fan; it should please everybody. In fact, director Donald Gal-laher has achieved a first-rate melodramatic hit.

Kernell Lyric Sung by Star.

William Kernell, song composer under contract to Fox Films, was signally honoured by John McCormack accepting one of his compositions, "A Pair of Blue Eyes," and singing it as his final number of eleven songs in McCormack's first audible screen starring vehicle, the Fox movietone production "Song O' My Heart," slated to open at the Queen's Theatre to-morrow after its successful New York run.

Further assurance that the world's greatest lyric tenor may include the number in future concerts has enhanced the delight of the young song composer.

Since coming to Fox movietone, Kernell has written several song successes, chief of which was "Sally of My Dreams," introduced as the theme song of "Mother Knows Best," in which Louise Dresser was featured with Mudge Beamy.

"Song O' My Heart" was written by Tom Barry, author of a number of successful plays. Frank Borzage directed the production and it embodied one of the most delightful romances of youth yet to come to the sound screen, according to all stories from the preview centres.

McCormack includes in his repertoire of eleven songs many of those best identified with him during his concert tours, radio and record appearances and the movietone record is also said to be lifelike in its reproduction qualities.

The supporting company includes Maureen O'Sullivan, J. M. Kerrigan, John Garrick, Tommy Clifford, Alice Joyce, Farrell Macdonald, Edna Ellsler, Emily Filzroy and other notables of the stage and screen.

"The Battle of Paris."

Paris, the kind that stick together through thick and thin, so devoted that they are called the three musketeers. Three such friends—an Englishman, a Frenchman and an American—were resting in a French hospital. George, a nurse, was more than kind to them. When her lover, on leave, failed to put in his appearance, the three friends decided to put on a party to help George forget.

In a crowded restaurant in Paris is staged one of the gayest festivals of song and music that that city of bright lights ever heard. Her lover comes back, but only after George had been kidnapped.

The above is a part of the story of "The Battle of Paris," the all-talking and singing Paramount picture coming to the Central Theatre to-day.

Gertrude Lawrence, the popular musical comedy star, takes the lead, ably supported by a fine cast headed by Charles Ruggles. Miss Lawrence sings a number of popular airs, of years gone by as well as several new songs written especially for her.

costing is the integrating element to which democracy looks to secure the cohesion and unity of the body politic more effectively than anything that has yet come on the scene. You have seen the place that we have given to education, and that not without criticism.

"Were we wrong in regarding the potentialities so high? The groups you represent, almost 400 in number, are conclusive proof that there is a place at the lowest terms for education in the exploitation of this great medium."

OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP RESULTS.

Although no surprise results heralded in the Open Singles Tennis Championship of the Colony yesterday, several interesting encounters were witnessed at the Hongkong Cricket Club, notable amongst them being the meeting of Ng Sze-kwong and T. Akiyama, Paul Kong and Y. W. Lee and J. W. Leonard and F. A. Redmond.

The first-named in each case was the winner the matches running true to form.

Ng Sze-kwong did not have matters all his own way against a virile opponent, and only a typical recovery in the second set, allowed him to finish off the match at that stage. In this stanza, Akiyama took a 6-1 lead as a result of some fine tactics of aggression, and that he did not win the set was almost entirely due to two inexcusable errors at a time when he only needed two points for the set. Akiyama was the more versatile of the two, but Ng's steadiness, coupled with his vast experience, pulled him through to win the match with scores of 6-4, 7-5.

F. A. Redmond was quickly eliminated by J. W. Leonard, the latter only losing three games in the two sets necessary for decision, whilst Paul Kong had a light-hearted encounter, winning 6-1, 6-1. Other successes, which were in full keeping with the play, went to Yew Man-kit and Ng Kam-cheun.

In the doubles championship, Segalen and Zimmermann defeated Feroz Ali and Firdos Khan, but neither pair invited confidence, and it was a rather poor match. D. S. Green accomplished an excellent performance in his posing of D. B. Evans, a stylish and hard-hitting player, in the Club Championship.

INTERPORT TRIAL TO-MORROW.

THE PROBABLES.

The final Interport soccer trial is being held on the Club ground to-morrow (Wednesday) at 4.30 p.m. when the Probable team will line up as follows:

Clark; Lin Tin-sang, Henderson; Hedley, Eynon, Lam Yuk-ying; B. Gosano, Segalen, A. Gosano, Fung King-cheung, and Ip-Pak-wa.

If it is considered necessary, changes will be made at half-time. The opposition is being provided by a strong Navy team.

INTERPORT HOCKEY.

Shameen, Feb. 9.
In a hockey match played here yesterday between teams representing Hongkong and Canton, Canton won by two goals to one. The game which was a fast one, was very evenly contested throughout. —Our Own Correspondent.

THE INTERPORTS.

SHANGHAI DISPLAYS NOT ENCOURAGING.

The Soccer Interport selectors must have viewed the trial game at the Canidrome with very mixed feelings and ideas, for the Probable side, as a team, were very much approaching a failure, says the N. C. D. News. The Possibles, having but ten players for the whole of the first half, held their opponents to a goal, and, indeed, had quite as much of the play.

On a field which was ankle-deep in soft mud, the Rest of Shanghai scored a surprise victory by 11 points (1 goal, 2 tries) to nil over the Probable fifteen in the Interport Rugby trial.

Shanghai will lose one of her best known athletes when Jack Pote-Hunt leaves for Hongkong with the Interport soccer team. He is not returning to Shanghai with the eleven as he has been transferred to the Canton branch of his firm, the Imperial Chemical Industries.

The Shanghai team is as follows:—Chow (Loh Hwa), Monroe (S.F.C.), Martin (Police), Stokes (S.F.C.), Pote-Hunt (S.F.C.), Gash (Police), Costa (C.L.), Elliot (S.F.C.), H. Collier (C.L.), Sinclair (S.F.C.), Widmore (G.H.), Graham (G.H.), Murphy (G.H.), Vance (R.A.S.C.) and Gutierrez (C.L.).

All the fifteen will travel down to Hongkong but only eleven will represent Shanghai against Hongkong. The other three players will serve as reserves. The team will be managed by Mr. Campon, a member of the Shanghai Football Association.

Disorders of the digestion, whether mild or severe, need treatment which goes to the fundamental cause—poor blood. When the blood is thin and watery the digestive organs are weak and ill-nourished. INAUGURATING THE NEW DELHI.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES THIS WEEK.

London, Feb. 9.

Widespread interest has been aroused in India in this week's ceremonies in connection with the inauguration of the New Delhi, and the significance of the occasion is amply recognised here. The ceremonies were due to begin today, with a banquet and reception in the Viceroy's House. The Dominions columns will be unveiled to-morrow. There will be a great fete inside the Moghul Fort on Wednesday, in the presence of the Viceroy. On Thursday, a magnificent war memorial will be dedicated, affording the most impressive function of the week.

MORE FLATS FOR KOWLOON.

LANDMARK REPLACED BY MODERN BUILDING.

Taking the place of an old private house that has been a landmark at the corner of Hankow and Peking Roads, Kowloon, for some years, a block of modern apartments will soon be built there. The demolition of the old building has just been completed, and foundations for the new structure will begin shortly.

Plans make provision for a building of four stories, the ground level being devoted to shops, while the upper three will be given over to apartments. The building will be in keeping with the appearance of many of the fine new blocks that have sprung up around the Peninsula Hotel. A distinct note has been struck in the outside architecture, which has many new features including a wrought iron design over each of the entrances. There will be verandahs round the first and second floor levels and a balcony on the upper floor.

Features of the lay-out of the apartments are their spacious rooms. Each floor is of the same design. Facing Peking Road there will be four apartments of a living room, dining room, bed room, and bath room while the corner flat will be comprised of six rooms and three bathrooms. Along Hankow Road there will also be four flats of three rooms and bathroom. All the apartments include kitchens, servants' quarters and pantries, while an outstanding feature is the commodious entrance hall.

Architects for the new building are the Credit Foncier d'Extreme Orient, and Lun Sang are the contractors. It is estimated that the flats will be ready for occupation in October of this year.

A FIRE DISASTER.

MANY VALUABLE HORSES BURNED ALIVE.

Oakland, Calif., Feb. 9.

Three men, and scores of valuable horses, have been incinerated in a fire in the Oakland Horse Show buildings.

The scene was an inferno. Terrified horses kicked down their stalls, and some succeeded in breaking away and dashed outside enveloped in flames. Police were obliged to shoot them to put them out of their misery.

Greens and firemen rescued some of the animals, but the loss in horses alone is estimated at $250,000.

Incendiarism is suspected.—Reuter's American Service.
